

TJCL CONVENTION

Historian Mindy Cole takes group snapshots for the state scrapbook.

The annual TJCL state convention was held the weekend of April 22-23 at Riverdale High School in Murfreesboro, Tennessee. An estimated 1200 JCL'ers gathered for fun, games, and academic contests.

The campus of Riverdale High School was a wonderful location for this year's convention, with plenty of room for everyone. Great thanks are owed to Mrs. Peak, the sponsor of the Riverdale JCL, for securing the school for convention.

Certamen was the big event on Friday, after the opening assembly. Preliminary tests were held, then the actual rounds were played. After quite a few close matches, Northeast won the Novice Division, Clarksville won the Lower Division, and Northeast won the Upper Division.

Olympic competitions were held at the campus of MTSU. Many JCL'ers took advantage of the beautiful, sunny weather to cheer on their team members.

Academic contests were held most of Friday afternoon. JCL'ers returned to the Riverdale campus after dinner for skits, open certamen, and the dance.

The official elections and awards presentations were held at the assembly Saturday morning. The new 1988-89 TJCL officers are: President: Lillie Romero, Northeast High School; Vice-President: Robin Edelston, Clarksville High School; Secretary: Veronica Wilborn, Northwest High School; Treasurer: Lynn Sung, Dobyns-Bennett High School; Parliamentarian: John Maurer, Overton High School; Historian: Jennie Beth Harris, Clarksville High School; Torch Editor: Brian Olson, Germantown High School; Sameer Shah of Northeast High School was awarded the Warren-Taylor-Watkins Scholarship to the national convention, to be held in Boulder, Colorado, July 31-August 5.

Everything ran smoothly and, as usual, convention was a smashing success.

Dear TJCL students and teachers,

At last my senior year is coming to an end, and although I'll miss all of you and TJCL, I'm looking forward to college and a change of scene. State convention has truly been one of the highlights of a great year and I have you to thank for this opportunity. I'd like to give special thanks to some very special people. First, Ms. Baird for being patient, understanding, and caring enough to take on the position of state chairperson. I thank my fellow officers for a job well done and a great year of friendship. Thanks to Mrs. Peak for an unbelievable job of coordinating an uncoordinatable situation. Millions more thanks to Mr. Harper for his enormous contributions of time and effort in creating a masterpiece of a presentation on national convention. Thanks to gentlemen like Mr. Tackett, Mr. Duff, and too many other to list for whom I have a great deal of respect and admiration. I hope that in the coming year a few more of my ideas, like the spirit committee and video presentation, may be implemented, and I hope that my contribution to TJCL has been a positive and lasting one. I welcome the new officers and their new ideas and foresee a future for TJCL equally as illustrious as past and present.

Your continued friend and interested member,

Lela A. Mahoney

FIRST PLACE ENTRIES IN POETRY CONTEST

Trojan War Brad Armstrong Bearden Middle School 7th Grade

In Troy they fought a battle long;
Hector was great but Greece held strong.
They fought till the end for the end was in sight;
It ended in fury ablaze of light.
They built a horse of logs and timber,
And then sailed off as if to surrender.
The Trojans were told the horse was great;
So they made up a plan and broke down the gate.
There were men in the horse where no man had been;
The city sought rest and out came the men.
Their signal was quick and during the night;
Their men were all rested and ready to fight.
The battle was harsh it seemed never to cease;
Odysseus had won and returned to Greece.

The Labors of Hercules Clay Fleischer Dobyns-Bennett High School 9th Grade

Twelve great tasks Hercules endured
To redeem himself and make him pure.
When no mortal weapon could end its breath,
Hercules killed the Nemean Lion; he choked it to death.
He killed the Lernean Hydra dead,
The foul, scaled dragon with nine heads,
And captured Diana's golden-horned buck.
To bring it back alive required divine luck.
He seized on Mount Erymanthus the great boar,
Hurt it neither and killed it nor.
He had a day to clean the Augean Stable.
It hadn't been cleaned for a year as no one was able
To clean the stalls of a thousand cattle
By diverting the paths of two rivers to win that battle.
With Athena's divine assistance,
Hercules ended the Stymphalian birds' existence.
To return it to Poseidon, who held it dear,
He went to Crete to get Minos' steer.
He was the only man to dare
To retrieve Diomedes' carnivorous mares.
He obtained the girdle of the Amazon Queen
Hippolyta, whose disposition was rather mean.
Although Geryon tried to defend,
Hercules got his beloved cattle in the end.
Atlas helped him get golden apples from the tree
Of Hesperides, a cyclops with but one eye to see.
He went down to Hades and while he was there,
He rescued Theseus from his "forgetful" chair.
So when you face labors like Hercules,
Be glad your tasks are not like these.

Persephone Tonia Goodwin Germantown High School 10th Grade

The flowers will bloom and the birds will sing
Only when Persephone decides to bring Spring.
Stolen by Hades for her outstanding beauty,
She acquired this job quite suitably.
Hidden in the underworld she would cry out,
But Demeter couldn't hear her for all she could do was pout.
After finding out from Apollo where Persephone was,
Demeter asked Zeus to return to her the one she loves.
For a year Demeter sat and mourned,
And finally for the release of Persephone, Hades was warned.
Knowing he couldn't go against Zeus,
Hades gave in for it was no use.
Persephone having eaten one pomegranate seed
Would have to return to the underworld after her yearly deed.
So for four months of each year
She was allowed to come to earth to bring Spring here.
So when you see the wonders of Spring with your eyes,
Remember it's Persephone, but only in disguise.

Gladiator Susanna Perry Hume Fogg Academic High School 11th Grade

The roar from the stands surrounds me in thick waves of heat
and when my eyes squint through the visor the top layers of the sands boil and rise through the noise, in vibrations that rattle our helmets.
Our helmets . . . his is black, silver in the dents.
His image blurs with the sand and sound
as sweat runs into my eyes, dripping into my mouth.
A harsh pitch rises above the cacophony.
I look up to the purple canopy —
the metal burns on my head.
I balance the sword and as the sun hits it
Minerva's outline flashes at me — the helmet and shouldered owl
At a blink she changes — now my wife with jar on head, son on her neck, wandering just as aching and smouldering —
on African sands.
The pitch screams again and the two helmets
draw patterns in the grainy sea.
He is older and scarred —
a puckering brand sprawls on his chest from yesterday's trial.
He limps and tires quickly.
I down him before our shadows alter.
I look again at the purple box.
The sweat streams prevent me from seeing the emperor's signal.
Yet the deeper roar in the air is sign enough —
I slam the blade through his neck, into the cooling sands.
I receive today's bonus — perhaps my opponent made his, too . . .
for tomorrow, the flashing image of Minerva may reveal dark eyes, darker with tears.

Roman Ruins

12th Grade

In the midst of the Forum stand the ruins,
 Dilapidated, run-down, barely existent,
 Vestiges of a life that once was:
 A golden culture full of wealth and beauty,
 Rich in art and literature,
 Back in the ancient times when
 Cicero gave his orations from the rostra
 Or Augustus changed the brick of Rome to marble.
 These ruins had been whole once before,
 Edifices built stolid in splendid architecture
 With columns standing full in length
 Stretching nearly to Olympus itself
 And ornate pediments inscribed and inlaid
 In gold acanthus leaves and silver thorns.
 Such buildings as the Curia or Temple of Jupiter
 Once stood in full regal splendor.
 What remains is but a wreckage —
 A cruel mockery of previous glory
 And memories linger among the ruins
 And tears fall for a remembered past.

REMINDER TO JCL SPONSORS

If you did not turn in your convention evaluation form to Miss Baird at the convention, please mail it to her at The Hutchison School.

ATTENTION!

Several TJCL members have notified Miss Baird that their Graphic Arts entries were missing when they went to claim them. Although monitors were assigned to supervise the projects during viewing hours, TJCL cannot be responsible for art projects which somehow disappear. Perhaps the missing art was taken by mistake — the Executive Board would be very disappointed to know that TJCL members would deliberately take someone else's work. Suggestions for dealing with this situation at future conventions would be appreciated; please send them to Miss Baird.
